

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

Tuesday, February 23

1999

Dryden Center Director Petersen visiting Marshall Tuesday

Kevin Petersen, director of NASA's Dryden Flight Research Center, Edwards, Calif., is visiting the Marshall Center Tuesday. Following a Center overview briefing, Petersen also will be briefed on the Space Transportation Program at Marshall. He will view Marshall space transportation and International Space Station hardware facilities.

Toastmasters meeting, 11:30 a.m. Tuesday in Bldg. 4610, cafeteria conference room

National Engineer's Week Feb. 21-27

All-hands meeting March 1

Marshall Center Director Art Stephenson will conduct an all-hands meeting at 8 a.m. Monday, March 1 in Morris Auditorium. Marshall's organizational development teams will present the status of the Center's reorganization initiative. The meeting will be broadcast on closed-circuit television.

National Quality Assurance auditor Lunt visits Marshall

Judge Lunt from National Quality Assurance is visiting the Marshall Center to conduct an audit of the Center's ISO 9001 Quality Management System. The audit, which began Monday and continues through Wednesday, is another in a series of external surveillance audits by Marshall's external registrar to access the health of the Quality Management System.

Reception honoring Bill Taylor Tuesday

The retirement reception for Bill Taylor will be held 4-6 p.m. Tuesday in the Bldg. 4203 cafeteria. Ticket cost is $7 and may be purchased from Judy Green, Bldg. 4200, room 828. Previously purchased tickets will be accepted.